

YOU SAID LATER

You talk to you later

When I had hundreds and thousands of words to tell you

But you never gave me a chance to

Express myself about how I fell for you

You said I will call later

You made me a robot

Looking at my phone full with the intensions of receiving your call

A text but not

You called me names when I gave you random calls and silly messages

But it was all out of love

When you said see you later ,

My heart was not at ease

All I did was to wait for your presence

For it meant everything to me in this world.

We'll walk later,

It was a promise you made to me,

I waited for that time to come so that I can enjoy your company at all cost but it never came to pass.

I'll love later,

It was the most fake promise you gave to me

If only you knew the tomorrow

You could give me the taste of your love

I was too eager and ready to call you mine

But you said you will love me later

Now that you are no more, who shall fulfill those fake promises?.....i'm hurt!!!